Notice: Kyocera Chemical Business Obtained Third Party Re-certification and ISO Re-registration

This is to notify that Kyocera Corporation (the “Company”) has obtained one re-certification and one re-registration for certain chemical products disclosed on January 8, 2021, as having improperly received certification from a third-party verification organization.

(1) The company has obtained re-certification from the Underwriters Laboratories (“UL”), a third-party safety science organization in the United States. The matter was disclosed in the “Notice Relating to Rescission of Certification from Third-Party Organization for Certain Chemical Products” on March 17, 2021.

(2) The company has obtained re-registration to the Japan Quality Assurance Organization (JQA) for the partial ISO 9001* certification that JQA had previously invalidated. The matter was disclosed in the “Notice Relating to the Change of the Scope of Kyocera’s ISO 9001 Certification Registration” on July 16, 2021.

The company will continue to implement sincerely the corrective actions and measures described in the appendix of the “Notice Relating to Results of Investigation into Inappropriate Acquisition of Certification from Third-Party Organization for Certain Chemical Products” from May 14, 2021.
